Opinion

As I write this segment, we are 9 calendar days from the Iowa Caucus for the General Election. This is one of the “trend-setters” for the election. There will be 3 other caucuses or primaries in the following 4 weeks. I’m pretty tired of all the innuendos, insults and in-fighting. The broadcast channels are consumed by the candidates and polls. Not being a “campaign wonk” I find the news largely about chewing up the clock with allegations, campaign strategy, and statistical models – all of which don’t interest me.

I am a “people wonk”. I am looking for people who manifest good values, have a strong history of actions consistent with those values, who change little over time and are dependable visionaries of the future. A “change maker” is a negative when it comes to inventing a “new America”. (We learned that lesson from Omar). It is absolutely clear that having oratory skills without honesty and dedication to our American culture is simply not a sufficient qualification for the Oval Office.

I ask that voters shed their petty differences about candidates and unimportant things, and search for the one-in-a-million individual who can restore our country to its climate of exceptionalism. It is your responsibility to choose your leaders. Encourage your friends, family and neighbors to vote. If you choose not to vote – God help ya.

What say you, America? Editor

ICYMI] Top US Admiral Fired For Questioning Obama Purchase of Mansion in Dubai

A stunning new Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) report circulating in the Kremlin today states that one of the United States Navy’s top commanders was relieved of his command a few hours ago after he sent out an “email/posting” revealing that President Barack Obama was in the process of purchasing a multi-million dollar seaside luxury villa in the United Arab Emirates city (UAE) of Dubai. (What? Not in Hawaii? Serious questions about Obama’s “world tour”, Muslim faith and his lack of dedication to America) (You might re-read the opinion on his World Tour last week!)

Naval Shank

In January 2016, Rear Admiral Rick Williams was relieved of command; however, that action had nothing to do with any presidential real estate scouting in Dubai. (None of this surprises me! This is a rebuttal from Snopes – a liberal-based Fact Checker which has been discredited several times. Heritage Action cannot verify this. Inasmuch as the Iranian capture of U.S. Sailors has been dissected and strongly refuted as a presidential propaganda stunt, I won’t confirm or retract any of this. A Google Search hasn’t afforded more clarity. Just beware of this president and beware of Snopes.)
